

Audirvana launches its brand new Audirvana Remote mobile app available on Android and iOS

REMOTE

Paris, October 18, 2019

After the launch of its new version 3.5 for macOS in Spring, Audirvana announced its new Audirvana Remote application available for iOS and Android at the Paris Audio Video Show on October 18.

Double good news for PC users, a version 3.5 of Audirvana for Windows 10 is also released.

Audirvana is an expert audio software that accepts all audio formats and resolutions, prioritizes music on the computer and adapts its settings to the sound system to make it a high-fidelity audio source. In just a few years, this HiFi software has become the world reference in terms of sound quality and has been awarded many times by the audiophile press.

The software is available in macOS or Windows 10 version for a price of 78 € including VAT (75 USD excl. sales tax).

A brand new Remote app for Android and iOS

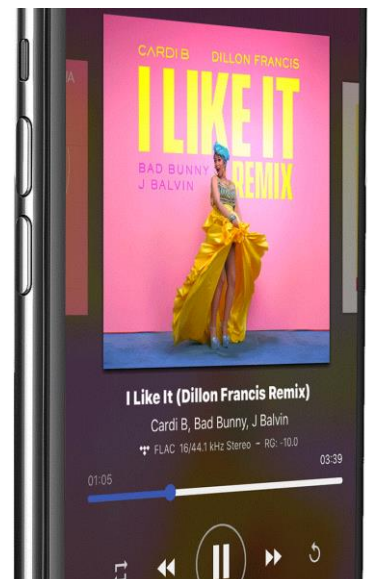

Audirvana has been developing for several months a complete redesign of its remote control app.

For the first time, an Android version of Audirvana Remote is available on the Play Store. The Audirvana Remote version for iOS replaces the A+ Remote available on the App Store. Audirvana Remote requires at least iOS 11 or Android 5.

The Audirvana Remote allows you to browse all the music libraries accessible from the application, create, rename and reorganize playlists, accurately set your playback volume using the application's internal digital control and switch the output audio device.

Audirvana Remote for iOS or Android are available at €9.99 each (USD 8.99).

Audirvana Remote for iOS is a free upgrade for A+ Remote.

Major update of Audirvana for Windows 10

The 3.5 update for Windows 10 is a turning point marking the convergence of both PC and Mac versions of Audirvana, which now benefit from the exact same features and the same user interface. This update adds features such as internal digital volume control, replay gain or album cover adjustment.

Audirvana 3.5 for Windows 10 is a free update for all users with a license for Windows 10.

Audirvana already compatible with macOS Catalina

Audirvana version 3.5 is already compatible with macOS Catalina (10.15) released this October 2019. Its users will be able to continue to use iTunes synchronization as well as the iTunes Integrated Mode (now Music in macOS Catalina), which is commonly used as the user interface for languages that are not natively translated in the software.

Audirvana 3.5 for Mac is a free upgrade for all customers of a license of Audirvana 3 for Mac.

Audirvana will present all these new products on its booth 3-13 at the Paris Audio Video Show.

About AUDIRVANA :

Founded in 2011, Audirvana is a French company created by Damien Plisson, a well-known developer acknowledged as an expert in the audiophile community. Since its launch in 2011, Audirvana Plus for Mac has become the reference hi-fi software player for audiophiles around the world. Its sound quality and reliability have won over sound engineers, who use it in the recording studio as well as in live concerts. Audirvana has received many awards, such as the "Audio Excellence Award 2016" from the Japanese magazine Audio Accessory, the "Exceptional Product – 5 Stars Award" from iCreate magazine in September 2017 as well as the "Remarkable" price of the VUmètre journal in 2018.
